

Case Study

eNable Business Solutions, LLC (formerly Cornerstone Capital Advisors, LLC)
Cumming, Georgia

Situation

eNable Business Solutions (www.enablebusol.com) manages and provides back office and accounting services for over $200 million in assets for several real estate investment funds investing throughout the United States. The company has more than 6 years of experience providing administrative services for real estate development companies, non-profits and senior living communities.

"We had moved our offices several times over the years," says Robert Covington, eNable President. "We had lost important documents, created excessive redundancy, and had no logical organizational system. It's hard to say just how many physical and electronic documents we had – paper was overflowing in our file cabinets and some information was only on one computer. More often than not, the document you needed was in someone else's office on their computer. In fact, some people here never returned documents to the file, and we would find the documents only after days of frenzied searching. We needed a way to streamline our system."

Solution

eNable established its reputation by combining management expertise with technologies that increase efficiency and productivity and allow the companies they service to "conduct business without boundaries." As part of the company's strategy of implementing new technologies, eNable selected eDrawer to make the shift from paper-based business processes to electronic document management.

According to Covington, "We looked at several solutions on the market, and eDrawer was the best fit for our needs." He also points out that the eDrawer solution was easy to implement. "It was the best value for the money, and was also relatively easy to learn. My employees didn't have to spend too much time learning the system, and could begin using it right away."

Results

Two years after implementing the eDrawer solution, Covington says that it has performed exactly as advertised. "Although we still keep some original documents where required, my employees can find the documents they need easily and with little fuss. No one's project has to wait for a colleague to return from vacation, or spend hours digging through musty old files. Where we had file boxes and cabinets shoved into every available corner, we now have just a few located strategically. Before, we had no unifying order, and each person filed as he or she thought was logical. eDrawer has helped us work together, rather than at odds with one another."

According to Covington, one of the biggest advantages of using the eDrawer system is that he can access the files he needs whether he's in his office, at home or on the road. "I can get whatever document I need no matter where I am. eDrawer has changed how we work, and has made us more efficient and productive. We liked it so well in fact, we decided to become a reseller of the product."
